AFTERNOON UPDATE: Area seniors getting flat screen television, Wii video game system

Bluefield Daily Telegraph

BLUEFIELD - A group of area senior citizens are putting their cash prize in Bluefield's first "City of Lights" competition to good use. They are buying a Nintendo Wii.

The Bluefield Senior Friends, who helped to decorate the winning Opera house display for Community Action of Southeastern West Virginia, are using their first place $500 cash award to buy a Wii and a flat-screen television to play the video game system on, according to Bonnie Patterson with CASE.

"We needed the flat screen so we could play Wii," Patterson said. "They (the seniors) just really got behind it. They just really rallied, and just had their churches voting, and all of their friends."
