WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS -- One of the most recognized religious figures in America celebrates a milestone in West Virginia.

The Reverend Billy Graham's birthday bash was held in Greenbrier County Thursday night.

He's celebrated his 90th birthday at The Greenbrier Resort in White Sulphur Springs.

Graham's birthday drew a national audience.

Greta Van Susteren's Fox News Show aired live from The Greenbrier.

She interviewed Graham's son who said the Reverend will no longer serve as a presidential spiritual advisor.

Graham has been a spiritual advisor to presidents for more than half a century and a world-wide religious leader even longer.

Graham is said to be in poor health, but he made the trip to the mountain state anyway.
